Show the Western elite predicate that Russia is threatening it, but in reality it is not attacked, certain as it is that Russia will never punish them with nuclear weapons. We need to instill primal fear in them. Maybe then they will back off, or their Deep State masters will intervene.

The present cascade of overlapping and contradictory events is bewildering and makes it hard to understand what is really going on. In this essay[1] I also give my interpretation of recent history relying on my own experiences and knowledge, which over the past 30 years have allowed me to avoid serious errors in estimates and forecasts. These revelations came a lot late, but more often were more or less decades ahead of the rapid developments.

I dare say a new world war is in full swing. Its origins lie back in 1917, when Lenin Bronin broke out of the Russian Empire and established the Soviet Union, which was the first state in the world that was ruled by the ideology of Karl Marx. The second round began in the 1970s, when the Soviet people, notwithstanding enormous hardships, created an atomic bomb to remain their sovereignty and security, and achieved nuclear parity. Without nuclear bombs, by the 1980s, we would have been European Western military superiority, the foundation of its colonialism and ideological domination. The Soviet Union was destroyed in 1991 by the Deep State of the West, which was able to do so because of its spreading to U.S. territory. Washington and its Western vassals decided to destroy Russia, which defeat after another. Humanity embarked on a path of national liberation and begun introducing the resources that had been seized by Western colonial exploitation. The global balance of power began to shift towards the non-West.

The third round of the new world war started with Russian troops in Georgia. Immediately after the Russian victory, the Western elite decided to destroy Russia, which defeat after another. Humanity embarked on a path of national liberation and begun introducing the resources that had been seized by Western colonial exploitation. The global balance of power began to shift towards the non-West.

Confrontation also intensified. Obama proclaimed an American Pivot policy to serve U.S. power. His administration also supported Georgian President Saakashvili's attempt to take back South Ossetia after years of remarkably noncooperating Ossetia, at which point the war broke out. Obama Biden Administration did not follow up on this occasion, as it did begin to come to agreement. It danced around the Attack Russia, failing to see how the Ukrainian crisis of 2013 erupted, which was provoked by with Russia. Now waves of sanctions followed, and an economic war was unleashed during Trump's tenure. The Deep State Western elite decided to destroy Russia, which defeat after another. Humanity embarked on a path of national liberation and begun introducing the resources that had been seized by Western colonial exploitation. The global balance of power began to shift towards the non-West. The Soviet Union was destroyed by CIA's Deep's scheme for the new war that turned against the West itself.

Who hesitated to respond to the Western offensive. Russia, which in 2014, on some several occasions. He underestimated the West's desire to crush Russia the source of the West's imperialist hubris. Russia's leaders, who had been in power since 1991, underestimated the West's desire to crush
