

ABOUT PROTELION

Rapid digitalization has dramatically changed the traditional information security paradigm. Instead of network centric security built to protect office networks and data centers, the digitally connected world requires security designed to protect distributed users and devices independent of their locations.

Protelion understood this seismic shift and developed our vision steeped in Zero Trust principles. We assembled a team of international cyber experts to redefine security. The resulting Protelion Security Platform is uniquely architected to deliver inspired security solutions that combine greater protection, flexibility, and performance.

We are at the forefront of applying innovative approaches and creating ingenious products to help you protect your digital universe. Our products meet the exacting standards of German design and international certification bodies.

Our head office is in Berlin, Germany yet we have global reach with staff and distribution partners based throughout EMEA, the USA and Latin America.

OUR ADVANTAGES

Agility, flexibility and great value for money

Big company support with small company commitment

Seamless and fast protection to rely on

Contact us

Name

Phone number

E-mail

Message

Enter the code from the image

I agree to the terms of the Privacy policy

I agree with the provisions on data protection. I agree that Protelion will process the personal data provided by me electronically for the processing of my request and contact me, according to my explicit request, for the processing of my request. I can revoke my consent at any time with effect for the future.